Complimentary coffee and hot chocolate, around a campfire, kept the chills away during the 8:00 A.M. inspection.

Antiques are Green Campaign: Good Tie-In for Many Collecting Clubs

National Antique Week is promoted and celebrated in Great Britain during the week of November 23-30, 2009. This week long event with the theme Antiques are Green comes at a pivotal time for the antiques trade when public and media interest is heightened by campaigns such as "Antiques are Green" spearheaded by Nigel Worboys and the petition on "Antiques" designed to persuade the British government to provide more support to the Fine Art and Antiques industry.

The Association of Collecting Clubs and National Association of Collectors have become supporters of "Antiques are Green." We urge club leaders and partners to visit Nigel Worboys' website: <http://www.antiquesaregreen.org> for excellent information on the concepts of tying the green movement into antiques and signing up as a supporter.

The program has several aims. Some of these include:

- * Antiques are Green aims to promote antiques as an alternative form of recycling and conserving natural resources.
- * Antiques are Green aims to encourage existing consumers and attract a new audience who may not have considered buying antiques before.
- * Antiques are Green aims to encourage businesses and consumers on reducing their carbon footprint, dependency on fossil fuel and becoming greener.
- * By purchasing, conserving or selling antiques you contribute to these aims. By signing up for "Antiques are Green" you become part of this vision. There is no cost for signing up.
- * The Windsor Chair - As described on the "Antiques are Green" website, the best way to illustrate why antiques are green is by an example (this can be applied to many different antiques) the humble Windsor chair. The chair parts were made by craftsmen who lived in the woods where the materials came from. The turnings were produced on treadle-operated lathes, then parts were taken on foot to a local workshop to be assembled. From there the completed chairs would be distributed around the country by horse and cart or waterways. The chair saw hard use but is still around today. What a green product and what a life cycle! By buying this chair to use again we have conserved our natural resources and prevented the carbon footprint of another chair being produced, that possibly would come all the way from the Far East. I expect that a new mass produced chair will hit the waste dump long before the antique Windsor chair is sold again at auction, goes to the restorers to be revived and is retailed again for another 40 years use!

* By buying antiques and collectibles... and putting them into use, rather than buying a new product, is what "Antiques are Green" is all about. What a wonderful way for collecting clubs, for antique malls, flea markets, shows and auction houses to promote "going green" to younger consumers and buyers. This is another approach for reaching out to the young audience of 20-35 and showing how antiques can be an integral part of their lives while helping the environment all at the same time.

* Finding antiques and decorative objects to decorate your living space or work place is a great way to personalize your home or office and make it uniquely yours. Furnishing or redecorating your first apartment or home with old objectives makes economic sense, as well as "green sense."

* Vintage clothing... and clothing accessories are currently hot among young adults. We're talking buttons, fabric, jewelry, hats - either to wear or as decoration. Old advertising items and other graphic arts, movie posters and political posters, kitchen items, pottery and glassware, toys, music-related items, old record players and radios, old bottles, even vintage automobiles... the listing is endless, but can all tie in to the Green about Antiques concept. It provides a great way for a lot of collecting clubs to reach out to young adults by encouraging their interest in collecting in one or more of these areas by promoting the "eco-friendly" approach. These are the buyers, investors and collectors of the future. Find ways your club can whet their interest now.

As Nigel Worboys references on the "Antiques are Green" website, perhaps antiques is the oldest recycling trade in the world - promoting and marketing antiques and collectibles as "Antiques are Green" only makes sense.

St Francis of Assisi introduced Christmas Carols to formal church services. Christmas caroling began as an old English custom called Wassailing - toasting neighbors to a long and healthy life.

Candy canes have been around for centuries, but it wasn't until around 1900 that they were decorated with red stripes and bent into the shape of a cane. They were sometimes handed out during church services to keep the children quiet.

7th Annual Top of the Class Antiques Show

Forty quality antiques dealers from throughout the mid-west will converge on the Illinois State University campus in Normal, IL from Friday, January 25 through Sunday, January 27, 2013.

Last year's edition featured top dealers from eight mid-western states ranging from Ohio to Iowa and from Michigan to Tennessee. A few additional vendors have been added for this year's show which promises to bring a wide range of style and eras for display and sale.

Many of the vendors carry a general line, but some of the specialty dealers will bring quality toys, early Americana, jewelry, primitives, quilts, and hunting/fishing collections. The show strives to be a balanced one by also featuring furniture, art-glass and art-pottery, silver and glassware, advertising, paper, and books.

The show is a benefit for the students of the School of Communication at Illinois State and provides a real-life laboratory for students majoring in Public Relations and Communication. Senior students are involved in publicity and hospitality aspects of the show. PR students participate in planning and organizing show promotion to local and national media. One of the trade-marks of the show is vendor hospitality as students become involved in move-in and move-out support, booth sitting, and other dealer assistance.

Students also help maintain the show web site: www.topoftheclassantiques.com which offers driving directions, a list of vendors, and other show materials.

Show hours are Friday, January 25, 5:00 - 8:00 p.m., Saturday, January 26, 10:00 - 5:00 and Sunday, January 27, 10:00 - 4:00 p.m. Admission is $5 and is valid all three days. The show is held in the Bone Student Center at Illinois State University, 100 N. University Ave., Normal, IL. The Bloomington/Normal community is in the center of Illinois, at the cross-roads of Interstate 55, 74, and 39.

For additional show information, contact show manager Doug Jennings at 309.838.7080 or email at dkjenni@ilstu.edu

A Treasure Chest "A Trunk"

By Shelby Weister
"Four Seasons Antique Mall"

A trunk, according to Webster dictionary, is a chest for clothing. Trunks were used for storage, traveling and for concealing valuable belongings. Years ago, trunks were stored in wells attached with a rope, so thieves couldn't steal silver and money, etc. These boxes of different shapes, covered with metal, cloth, leather or canvas, were used by travelers to carry clothing and personal items, like we use our modern luggage. All trunks had trays or bonnet boxes with covers for storage of ladies hats, parasols and gloves. A lot of trunks are missing trays, because they were lost or destroyed over the years.

In the fall of 1900, Sears Catalog displayed twenty-five trunks on two pages, ranging in price from $1.75 to $37.00. The ad read, "We sell trunks at all prices. We can suit you in style and quality. We want your order, because we can sell good trunks and bags cheapest. We recommend the medium and better grades; a dollar or two added to the price of a trunk may mean many years of additional usefulness. There is integrity in trunks, as in other merchandise. They should be made to stand the wear and tear, which they are sure to get from time to time. Our trunks and bags are made under careful supervision, every nail, rivet, clamp, hinge and lock is attached with exactness and skill of the thorough workmanship. This is why we warrant every trunk to be represented and the best of its kind at the lowest possible price."

There were several trunk companies in Wisconsin, located in Milwaukee, Kenosha, Racine, Appleton, and Fond du Lac. Trunks were made from raw wood scraps of rough unplanned lumber, so companies were located near waterways and lumber mills. Pieces of tin or embossed tin covered the lumber, where seams joined together, a slat of wooden strip was attached with rivets, which is a nail with a head on both ends. Trunks were constructed of many other materials, such as wicker, rattan, and leather. There are many shapes and sizes, flat, rounded, camel back, and rounded sides. If you have ever visited Staten Island Museum in NY, where the Statue of Liberty is located, they have a display of over one hundred different kinds trunks that immigrants used when they brought their possessions to America with them.

Children's Trunks (smaller in size), doll trunks, salesman samples and unusual styles of trunks have greater demand and bring higher prices. Only the very elite could afford trunks for their children, most families shared one trunk. Theater trunks were very large and made of veneer covered with leather or black canvas. They stand on one end when you open them, and have drawers on one side and a place to hang costumes on the other. Traveling entertainers used them on trains. They were not made of wood, because they would have been too heavy to carry. Many old trunks were used to hold a young girls "Hope Chest" and carried a rich history from the old country. In Central Wisconsin, many trunks are from Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Norway.

Many people have at least one trunk in their possession. A trunk is one of the most basic and useful pieces of furniture there is. Trunks can be used as cocktail or lamp tables, storage units and benches. In the last twenty years, there has been a big resurgence in trunks, many people restore them to their original finish, or remove the tin to expose the beautiful patina wood finish. The inside of trunks and trunk trays can be restored using wallpaper, fabric, or cedar wood. Old trunks can be purchased at flea markets, rummage sales, or antique shops. The average price ranges from $50 to $200, depending on condition, style and rarity.

So Happy Trunking
