'Flying Spaceman' on motorcycle summons superpowers to land in top slot at Morphy's Feb. 15 Toy Auction

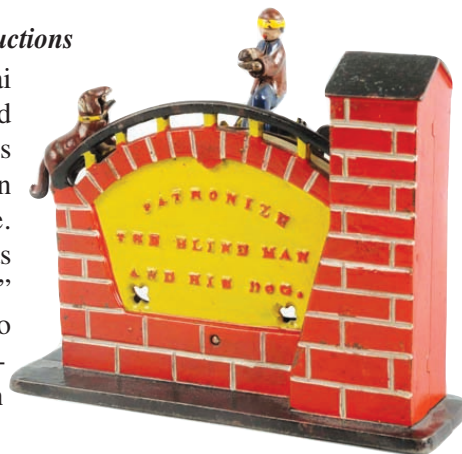

Article & photos by Morphy's Auctions

An exceptional boxed example of a Bandai 12-inch "Flying Spaceman" took a wild ride on February 15th at Morphy's before settling at $55,200 - more than three times its high estimate. Described in the Toy Auction catalog as being "possibly the best known example," the crisp and colorful Japanese tin-litho motorcycle toy features a vinyl-caped hard-rubber "Superman" rider with a large tin "S" insignia on its chest.

Top lot of the sale: Bandai Flying Spaceman, tin litho, friction, original box, $55,200.

Article & photos by Brian Maloney

There's not much certainty in the antiques trade, but there is one thing that Midwest antiques enthusiasts can count on: the weekly Beloit Auction & Realty consignment auction. Held each and every Wednesday evening, the popular event has drawn large crowds both in-house and online for years with a varied mix of everything from fine art and antiques to late model vehicles - and everything in between. At their January 29th event, quality collectibles in nearly every category crossed the block, including vehicles as diverse as an early Briggs & Stratton Motor Wheel and a like-new 2009 Harley Softtail Custom that rumbled off for $7,900.

Out & About

Imagine if we are complaining about the weather, how the animals must be feeling about this cold. Mom and dad have commented on how they haven't seen to many deer this year. They did have a mallard duck hanging around for awhile, even though the lake was frozen over by them. The squirrels have invaded their bird feeders and it has become dad's mission to de-squirrelify. This summer should be an adventure to say the least, when Brandon and Grandpa get together, what ideas they will come up with. Don't forget to set your clocks back on Saturday before you go to bed.

I have noticed my rides home have been a little brighter, that always helps with your mood too! When I get home in the dark, it just feels so late, and yet there is still so much to do and yet you don't feel the energy to do anything.

Last weekend, Brandon had a tournament in Eagle River, Wisconsin. This was the first time we could go as a family. This time was especially nice, as there was an ice castle. The information board said that Eagle River has built an ice castle off & on since the late 1920's. That it lasts 60-90 days depending on the weather. Day 1: ice is scored & cut on Silver Lake. Day 2: over 2,500 blocks of ice, 10x10x20 inches are removed from the lake & trucked to the site. Days 3-5: ice castle is built by 20-30 Eagle River Area Fire Dept. & area volunteers, from 6:30am to 5pm. Castle is designed by Jack Thomas, past Fire Chief, who is carrying on his family historical tradition of designing the castles. Donations go towards Fire Prevention Education & Materials for Childrens Public Safety.

Vehicles, Vintage & New Highlight January 29th United Country Beloit Auction

Article & Photos by Brian Maloney

You never know quite what you'll find at Beloit Auction & Realty's weekly Wednesday consignment auctions. One week might feature antique furnishings and advertising, the next art glass and estate jewelry. At their January 29th sale, there was a great mix of fine art, some choice vintage wristwatches, and a diverse selection of motor vehicles both new and old.

The winner among the cars was no surprise: a super-clean, low-miles 2007 Honda Civic sedan that sold for a strong $9,900. Want something a little more fun? Bidders sure liked the 1970s Gazelle kit car that drove off for $5,900. Still not fun enough for you? Then maybe the 1971 Datsun "Slewfoot" monster truck had your name on it. I'm not sure exactly what you'd do with it, but someone did, to the tune of $4,800.

And there was plenty here for those out there who prefer a two-wheeled mode of transport. Top-lot among them was that aforementioned 2009 Harley-Davidson Softail Custom that saw competitive bidding before crossing the block at $7,900. The oddest motor vehicle of the night just had to be the rare Briggs & Stratton Motor Wheel, which when bolted alongside your bicycle's rear wheel turns it into a motorcycle of sorts. It came complete with its 1940s Wisconsin title and registration, and sold for a surprising $2,800. A vintage Puch Newport moped was a more practical purchase, selling for $750.

There was plenty here for the rest of us too. Art lovers could choose from several signed lithographs from the likes of Salvador Dali and Alexander Calder. A Joan Miro "Mother of 10,000" litho beat them all pricewise, selling for $1,600. And those vintage wristwatches found ready buyers too, with a gold Hamilton Ventura electric bringing $2,200, and a Bulova Accutron Spaceview complete with box selling for $500. All of the 300-plus lots were on their way home with new owners within a few hours, thanks to the efficient Beloit Auction staff.

Some other Prices:

- 1+ Troy Ounce assortment of 10k and 14k gold - $510
- Thirty-three piece Sterling flatware set - $450
- Oil landscape attributed to Irving K Manoir - $300
- E.C. Biddle lithograph "An Iowan Chief" - $260
- Three-piece Art Deco bedroom suite - $200

Beloit Auction & Realty has been serving southern Wisconsin's auction needs for three decades, conducting weekly Wednesday evening auctions at their facility in Beloit. And while monster trucks don't cross the block here every week, there's always something interesting at every Beloit Auction & Realty sale. They also conduct many real estate and business liquidation auctions, plus specialty auctions at their sister facility in nearby Avalon, Wisconsin. They can be reached at 877-364-1965.

Be sure to bookmark their website too, www.beloitauktion.com, for the latest information on all their upcoming auctions. Many of their antique and collectible auctions can be previewed online as well. You can leave an absentee bid, or bid in "real time" on auction night if you want. And as always, keep an eye out for all of their upcoming auctions in the Auction Action Antique News!

Reproduction Federal-style ladies tambour desk - $195.

This jumbo mahogany side-by-side secretary was a nice buy at $250.

New Jersey Coastal Decoys to be Featured in Member Display & Seminar during the 49th North American Vintage Decoy and Sporting Collectibles Show in St. Charles, Illinois

New Jersey has a rich wildfowl and decoy tradition and the Midwest Decoy Collectors Association is thrilled to share some of the region's great work at this year's Member Display during our show at Pheasant Run Resort. The New Jersey coast is home to more wildfowl species than any other area in North America, and thus more types of decoys are found in this region than any other. The exhibit will include over 40 examples of the area's finest shorebird and duck decoys from the top private collections, many never before on public display. They will include choice examples from all of the major gunning areas along the New Jersey coast. From Bay Head, at the head of Barnegat Bay, working south along many of the coastal towns including Forked River, Barnegat,, Parkertown, Tuckerton, Atlantic City, and ending at Cape May, at the state's southern tip. New Jersey's three most significant carvers H. V. Shourds, Rowley Horner and Lloyd Parker are well covered along with other recognized carvers from each region. New Jersey collector John Clayton will conduct a seminar on the state's history, its decoys and the carvers who made them. The display and seminar are just part of a nearly week long event that includes over 30,000 sporting collectible items available for viewing, buying, and trading.

Toy Lovers Raise the Prices at Morphy's Auction

Article & Photos by Morphy's Auctions

"This particular toy was new/old stock with its original box and was found in a toy store in Japan. It's very uncommon to find a Flying Yonezawa Astro Scout, tin litho and painted tin, crank-wind action, original box, $8,400.

Spaceman in such nice condition, especially with the Superman shield still intact," said Morphy Auctions' owner, Dan Morphy. "There was a lot of interest in the toy prior to our sale, and it didn't surprise me that it went for as much money as it did."

Robots and space toys were strong across the board, Morphy said, with interest from around the world. "I've never seen online bidding as active as it was for this sale. From start to finish, there were at least 300 bidders on the Internet at any given time." The auction grossed $996,000 (all prices quoted in this report are inclusive of 20% buyer's premium).

Although only 8 inches in height, a beautiful Kanto tin wind-up "Television Robot" was the object of fierce bidding competition and commanded a price that one might expect of a rare and imposing Gang of Five robot. Together with its richly illustrated factory box, the near-mint extraterrestrial had been entered in the sale with a $15,000-$25,000 estimate. Collectors chased the fine example to $32,400.

Other robot highlights included a boxed tin-litho "Inter Planet Space Captain," $19,800 against an estimate of $2,000-$4,000; and two boxed robots that each made $8,400: a Masudaya "Mighty 8 Robot," and a Yonezawa tin-litho and painted-tin crank-wind "Astro Scout." Space guns, which have their own dedicated following amongst sci fi collectors, were led by a boxed Hiller "Atomic Ray Gun," $3,000 (est. $400-$600) and a boxed Yonezawa battery-operated "Electro Aoshin Shoten Inter Planet Space Captain, tin litho, windup, original box, $19,800.

Ray-Gun," $2,280 (est. $100-$300).

A 6-inch Ohio Art sand pail charmed bidders with its early, colorful lithographed image of Minnie Mouse paddling a canoe, along with companions Mickey Mouse and Pluto. Estimated at a modest $200-$400, it outperformed all other Disney toys in reaching a final bid of $4,200.

Cast-iron mechanical banks were in high demand, with a near-mint-plus example of an Artillery Target bank, complete with cannonballs, at the forefront. Although the manufacturer of this particular bank is not known, its designer was Samuel Clark of Brooklyn, New York, and its patent dates to 1877. Against an estimate of $18,000-$25,000, it hit the bull's-eye at $51,600.

Following closely behind was an 1878 J. & E. Stevens Patronize the Blind Man and His Dog bank. One of the nicest of all known examples, it more than doubled its high estimate to realize $50,400.

Other banks in the day's top 10 included: an 1891 J. & E. Stevens Cat and Mouse, $26,400; an 1884 Kyser & Rex Mammy & Child (rare color variation), $19,200; and an 1878 Pelican with Rabbit made by Trenton Lock and Hardware Co., $15,600.

"I was very pleased with the results," said Morphy's owner, Dan Morphy. "There was an atmosphere of enthusiasm throughout the sale, and many new bidders took part from around the world. Ask any auctioneer and they'll tell you there's nothing like new blood to liven up a market. If this sale is any indication of what's to come, 2014 is going to be a very exciting year for us and for the toy hobby."

The 20th annual World's Fair Memorabilia Show Returns To Chicagoland

The 1933/34 World's Fair returns to Chicagoland on March 30th. The hours are 10am to 4pm and it is being held at the Elk Grove Holiday Inn, 1000 Busse Road (Rt. 83 and Landmeier Rd.) in Elk Grove Village, Illinois. Admission is $6, $5 for seniors over 64. Early 9am Preview admission is $20.

Collectors and dealers will meet to buy, sell and trade items related to World's Fairs from 1876 to the present. The main focus will be on the 1933/34 Chicago World's Fair. This year our show celebrates the 80th anniversary of the 1934 World's Fair. There will also be items from the 1893 Chicago Columbian Exposition and other Chicago related ephemera. There will be some items from other World's Fairs including: 1904 St. Louis, 1939-40 New York, 1962 Seattle, 1964-65 New York, Expo '67 and most other World's Fairs. There will be over 20 tables of World's Fair items for sale! Though there are few traces left in the area where the fair took place - between Roosevelt Road and 39th Street along the lakefront including the area where Meigs Field was located (now Northerly Island Park) - Rick Rann and Bob Conidi are bringing the fair back to Chicago at this show!

There will be continuous showings of home movies and newsreels on video from the 1933/34 Chicago World's Fair. There will be a special display of 1933 World's Fair memorabilia. World's Fair collectors and fans of the fair are invited to come and relive one of the brightest moments in Chicago's history. (Two of the stars on Chicago's flag commemorate the 1893 and 1933/34 Fairs!) For info contact: Rick Rann, PO Box 877, Oak Park, IL 60303 708-442-7907 or Bob Conidi at (630) 467-0100. Or check our website for updates: www.worldsfairshow.com or e-mail ukczech@att.net.

Over 39,000,000 people attended Chicago's second World's Fair during 1933 and 1934. (The first being the Columbian Exposition held in 1893.) The theme "A Century of Progress" referred to the one hundred year period from the founding of Chicago in 1833, to the year of the fair, 1933. One of the guiding principles of the fair was "Progress Through Science". Many companies had working factories at the fair, where people could see the products being produced. Some of the items actually produced on the fairgrounds included Firestone tires, White Owl Cigars, Hiram Walker Whiskey (at the 1934 fair, as Prohibition ended at the end of 1933), Wonder Bread, and even Chevrolet automobiles.

The signature attraction of the fair was the Sky Ride. The Sky Ride had two observation platform towers which were 628 feet high (64 stories high). These platforms were taller than any building in Chicago at the time. Visitors could pay 50 cents and either go to the observation deck at the top of the towers (and see up to four states on a clear day) or ride in one of twelve double decked rocket cars at the 219 foot level. Each of the rocket cars held 36 passengers and traveled back and forth over a third of a mile over the fairgrounds.

The fair had many memorable buildings and attractions including the Sky Ride, Havoline's 227 foot tall thermometer tower (with neon tubing showing the current temperatures to fairgoers) and the Travel and Transport Building with a suspended roof. It is amazing that this fair was privately financed at the height of the Depression and was one of the few World's Fairs to make a profit! When the fair's accounts were settled in 1935 the profits were donated to area museums and some of the exhibits from the Fair were moved to area museums.

There are few traces left in the area where the fair took place - between Roosevelt Road and 39th Street along the lakefront including the area where Meigs Field was located (now Northerly Island Park). The Adler Planetarium, the Shedd Aquarium, the Field Museum and Soldier Field all pre-dated the 1933-34 World's Fair, but were incorporated into the plan of the Fair. These landmarks were incorporated into the Museum Campus by Mayor Daley in the 1990s.

Red Wing Collectors Society Selects Red Wing Stoneware To Manufacture The Organizations 2014 Annual Commemorative

Red Wing, MN - Red Wing Collectors Society (RWCS) Commemorative Manager Bob Morawski has selected Red Wing Stoneware to manufacture the 2014 RWCS Commemorative. Red Wing Pottery will assist with the manufacturing process and will also turn out cobalt-decorated 2 gallon salt glaze water coolers as the special pieces that will be auctioned off to benefit the Society during the club's annual Convention, July 10-12, 2014.

"I'm excited to work with new owners Bruce and Irene Johnson," Bob says. "Keeping Red Wing Stoneware and Red Wing Pottery alive and in Red Wing is huge for the community, so this is the perfect time to have them create our Commemorative."

The Johnsons purchased Red Wing Stoneware from previous owner Tom Woodruff last November and then bought Red Wing Pottery from Scott Gillmer in December. Red Wing Pottery was owned by the Gillmer family ever since former Red Wing Potteries President Richard Gillmer bought out the company's assets after the Potteries closed in 1967.

"The Johnson's passion and vision for Red Wing Stoneware and Red Wing Pottery will benefit the RWCS organization, the membership, the community of Red Wing, and so many more," adds Stacy Wegner, RWCS executive director. "We can't wait for Convention to see it all in motion."

Morawski says this will be only the second time in RWCS history that the Commemorative is produced in Red Wing; the Johnsons hope it is the first in a long line of pieces that they make for the club.

"We want to build a long-term relationship with the Society by creating a high-quality Commemorative that's on time and on budget," Irene says. "We're also going to do everything we can to promote the club, because the Society's success directly impacts us."

"We strongly feel that working with the Collectors Society will enhance the club's growth just as it will ours," Bruce adds. "We include a company flyer with every product that we ship out, and we see a lot of benefit in including information about the Society, as well. Making customers aware of the club's existence can only increase their interest in pottery and stoneware, which is good for all of us."

The identity of the RWCS Commemorative is a closely guarded secret every year until the piece is unveiled on the Thursday of Convention Week (July 10). But something that isn't a secret is the activities and events the Johnsons have in store for all the RWCS members who will visit Red Wing this July.

First, the popular factory tours will continue at Red Wing Stoneware and the Johnsons found a lot of unique pieces when cleaning out storage space, which they plan to sell during Convention Week.

As for the Red Wing Pottery Salesroom, the Johnsons are remodeling the interior and exterior to give it more of a "stoneware and pottery look and feel". The candy shop will reopen soon along with the Salesroom, but a coffee shop will also be incorporated into the space by the time Convention rolls around in early July. The Loons and Lady Slippers gift shop will reopen around May 1.

"We're going to have a lot going on at both sites during Convention Week," Bruce says. "We'll use this time to unveil our companies' annual commemorative and perhaps our annual Christmas ornament. In addition, we'd like to set up an area in the Pottery Salesroom to serve as an Antique Roadshow for people to bring in their Red Wing items and chat with Red Wing Collector Society members about its history and value. We will also have some activities going on in the parking lot."

The Johnsons also plan to open a pottery classroom at the Pottery Salesroom so customers can try their hand at making their own pieces after watching the potters at work as well as provide community education classes.

"We've noticed during the factory tours at Red Wing Stoneware that people really enjoy watching the potters hand-turn pieces, and they will often buy a finished example of a piece they watched being made because they're amazed by all the skill and patience that goes into creating it," Irene explains. "We're going to carry that over to the Pottery by giving visitors the chance to try it for themselves."

The 2014 RWCS Annual Convention, Destination Red Wing, is slated for July 10-12, 2014 in Red Wing MN. To learn more about the annual Convention, or the Red Wing Collectors Society, visit <http://www.erwcs.org>, find them on Facebook, Pinterest, or follow on Twitter.

Florida – The Asheford Institute of Antiques (AIA), a professional-level distance learning program on antiques, collectibles and appraising???, announced at an industry trade gathering recently that it plans to open new offices in Beijing, China by 2016, that will coincide with the school's 50th anniversary that same year.

During a publicly issued press statement at the event, the Institute's Director, Charles Green, was quoted as saying that, "The growing demand for Asian antiques, both here and abroad, made the decision to expand in that direction relatively easy, especially when you consider the sheer numbers involved." Insiders at the school emphasized that industry research they had conducted, had shown that people, regardless of geography, were hungry for as much new information on Asian antiques as they could get - especially items coming from China.

School spokesperson, Anthony Drew, said the Institute had been contacted by a number of antique concerns in the region who were interested in a joint venture that would allow for the expansion of the Asheford curriculum to China as well as neighboring countries. Drew went on to say that with a burgeoning middle-class developing throughout these areas, the time was now ripe to bring Asheford-style instruction in the field of antiques and appraising to the far east. "After that, it was just a matter of partnering with someone we really believed could help blend our program on antiques, collectibles and appraising with someone from that region of the globe," said Drew. "It's a different world over there, and you have to be mindful of how things operate, so we wanted to proceed cautiously."

When asked about curriculum changes involved in rolling out the Asheford program in China, Drew said that the Asian Course will be designed for an entirely different demographic, "It will be based on the items, products and services that are readily available to the people of this region at the time."

Release dates for the Asian Course are expected to coincide with the opening of the Beijing offices, and the school's 50th anniversary celebration sometime in 2016.
